BMJ Learning

BMJ Learning comprises over 600 short, interactive e-learning modules on clinical subjects. Although particularly targeted at GPs, GP trainees, hospital doctors, medical trainees, practice nurses and managers, the modules are also reportedly very well-liked by other clinical professionals wishing to keep up-to-date with bite sized chunks of learning. ## Recent Evidence from Primary Care

Can primary care reduce emergency hospital attendances?

Helping people to get same-day GP appointments and making sure extended hours match the times when people are most likely to need care, could reduce pressure on hospital emergency services.

Urinary tract infection: diagnostic tools for primary care

Minor updates to existing tool. These quick reference tools describe when to consider a UTI in: women aged under 65 years, adults aged over 65 years and adults with a urinary catheter who have a suspected CAUTI.

Interventions to Address Potentially Inappropriate Prescribing for Older Primary Care Patients: A Systematic Review and Meta-Analysis

Reduction in medication does not seem to lead to fewer ED visits, falls or improved quality of life.

Randomised Coffee Trial - A Refill?

RCTs encourage collaboration and the sharing of knowledge and ideas giving time to talk about whatever you wish, perhaps over a cup of coffee.

This was very popular when it was run at the start of 2025. Shall we do it again the same or different this time...Pick your preferred option here

All Change at the Knowledge & Library Hub

This extensive, evidence-based alternative to Google has had a major facelift. Have a look for yourself. Log in with your Athens account to get the full benefit.

Training sessions on the new interface are available or there are online tutorials.
