

Take part in COVID-19 Research

Have your say. Your views and wellbeing are important.

We would like to invite you to take part in the Psychological Understanding of Pandemics (PUPS) Research Study, which aims to understand the psychological consequences of living through a pandemic. We are interested to understand whether the pandemic is affecting people's wellbeing, particularly feelings of hopelessness, anxiety, health anxiety, loneliness, phobias, quality of life, uncertainty, obsessive compulsive behaviours and panic.

Take part in our online questionnaire
